

Washington, DC Association of REALTORS® The State Association for the District of Columbia

Did you know...

The Washington, DC Association of REALTORS® is dedicated to addressing the legislative and regulatory issues that affect all REALTORS® who rely on business in Washington, DC. WDCAR has over 2300 members. Additionally, many REALTORS® in adjoining jurisdictions are concurrently licensed in the District of Columbia.

The National Association of REALTORS® (NAR) recognizes WDCAR as a state association and is one of only a few national associations that publicly support the right of District of Columbia citizens to have voting representation in Congress.

WDCAR leadership is often consulted by national media, such as The Washington Post, for input on real estate issues. WDCAR members provide real estate services to members of Congress, international officials, and well-known political and media personalities.

The District of Columbia real estate market encompasses the diversity of eight wards and four quadrants. DC real estate sales volume was over $3 billion in 2010.
